

What's all the buzz about Ecobee?

Brunswick Electric Membership Corporation is partnering with Ecobee, Inc., to offer our members a wi-fi programmable thermostat at a reduced cost as part of an ongoing demand control project.

According to research published by Ecobee, Inc. the Ecobee4 wi-fi programmable thermostat has been proven to save 23 percent on heating and cooling costs in homes.

The Ecobee4 is connected in a centralized area of your home, but to ensure equal heating and cooling throughout the house, sensors can be placed in other rooms. The Ecobee4 comes with one additional sensor, but up to 32 sensors may be added.

Homeowners can monitor and control the wi-fi connected Ecobee4 anytime, from anywhere using the mobile app. This gives homeowners with existing wi-fi control of their heating and cooling energy use.

Easy to install and hard-wired for reliability, the Ecobee4 even has an auto-detection feature to help you know that it is installed correctly.

The unit retails for $249. However, Brunswick Electric is offering this benefit to our members at a reduced rate of $50 plus tax.

How does the program work?

Participants will allow BEMC to access their energy use profile in addition to household temperatures, thermostat settings and overrides. This information will be kept within the program and used solely for the purpose of determining actual energy savings.

BEMC will provide each participant a guide that outlines the recommended settings for maximum performance for this area. The cooperative will call for the thermostat to be controlled no more than six to eight times a month for a maximum of six hours each time. The control raises or lowers the temperature 3 degrees. Participants can override or opt-out of these settings, but their energy savings potential will be less.

Interested in participating? Visit the Ecobee tab under Energy Info at bemc.org to complete an application and a representative will contact you, or call us at (800) 842-5871.
